This may have the colour of a nice cuppa, but that's where the similarity ends. Say hello to one of the booziest cocktails known to man. A brimming iced highball, this combines Benjamin Hall gin with Absolut vodka, Tequila Jose Cuervo Classico, Bacardi white rum and triple sec, along with lemon juice, sugar syrup and, for that tea-like appearance, Coca-Cola.

Gin Fizz
Native to New Orleans, this simple classic soon caught on around the world with lots of variations. We've stuck to the original recipe but added some local flavour using a London dry made to an old Welsh recipe and named after the same Welshman as Big Ben! Benjamin Hall gin shaken with fresh lemon juice and sugar syrup, then poured onto ice and fizzed up with sparkling water.

Margarita
More discreet than a sombrero and lower maintenance than a chihuahua, nothing awakens your inner Mexican like a Margarita. Or two. Possibly the most fun of all the cocktails, our Margarita has Tequila Jose Cuervo Classico at its heart, shaken up with triple sec and lime juice, served in a salt and lime-rimmed martini glass. Simple, classic and a perennial favourite.
